

Video Editing Officer

Communications Team Description:

Our team is a dedicated group of designers, creators and creative thinkers, all working together to elevate Asclepios' brand. We ensure that all visual elements align with our mission and each team member plays an essential role in creating impactful designs. Some of the key objectives include improving the website, designing mission patches and managing different social media platforms among others. If you enjoy thinking outside of the box while working with like-minded people, we would love to welcome you in our team! This year, Asclepios is looking to boost its presence in both the social media world as well as the scientific community to cement itself as a leading student analogue research organisation.

Video Editing Officer Description:

As a video editing officer, you will collect, organise and edit footage of Asclepios events and progress over the course of the mission cycle.
