

UI Web Design Officer

Communications Team Description:

Our team is a dedicated group of designers, creators and creative thinkers, all working together to elevate Asclepios' brand. We ensure that all visual elements align with our mission and each team member plays an essential role in creating impactful designs. Some of the key objectives include improving the website, designing mission patches and managing different social media platforms among others. If you enjoy thinking outside of the box while working with like-minded people, we would love to welcome you in our team! This year, Asclepios is looking to boost its presence in both the social media world as well as the scientific community to cement itself as a leading student analogue research organisation.

Website UI Officer Description:

As a Website UI Officer, you will be responsible for developing and maintaining the Asclepios website by implementing clean, user-friendly, and aesthetically engaging user interfaces that align with the brand's visual identity.
